What's New in the Batch?

YouTube inventor created to improve YouTube creator studio workflow. * Add multiple tasks * Customize each and initialize the upload process * Save time in uploading * Preview videos before publishing * Capture videos from YouTube screen * Categorize and organise videos in Playlists and Channels * Publish videos instantly * Copy thumbnail and video to a folder * Play videos as per your convenience * Preview videos before publishing * Upload videos with multiple accounts at once * Manage multiple YouTube accounts * Upload & organize videos easily * Preview thumbnails before upload * Copies videos directly to the clipboard Vloggers and avid YouTube creators that have a high video posting frequency, will at least at one point in their editing and uploading process, consider a batch solution. Handling numerous videos and adding the details to each and every single one in particular can be exhausting. batch was developed to help those who work with large number of videos, playlists or accounts on YouTube, improve their workflow and efficiency. User-oriented layout that draws its structure based on the most common YouTube creator actions For those who have worked with YouTube's famous "Creator" section when uploading content, it becomes apparent really quickly that the app draws much of its features from it. This will make the transition far easier, as most tools are structured and organized in a similar fashion. Furthermore, the initial setup will guide users into adding their YouTube account(s) easily, together with all the important details. Efficiency is attained through the creation and management of uploading templates, which can be customized in great detail. Add multiple tasks, customize each and initialize the upload process Having defined an upload template, users can then proceed and create several tasks for each, and some of the post-upload options include copying the thumbnail files or the entire video files to a certain directory. This saves users a lot of time, especially when wanting to organize the "leftovers" of the upload process. Each of the upload processes is met with a progress bar and confirmation message, and can be paused or stopped at any time, using the dedicated playback controls. Really useful app, especially for those YouTubers who value intuitive handling and wish to save valuable time in their workflow batch could prove to be the ideal choice for users who need to "step-up their game" in terms of YouTube Creator studio operations. Making the whole upload and customization process more effective,
